

Local non-profits partner with Leave A Legacy

For Hometown News

Leave A Legacy announces the recent partnership of the Treasure Coast Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals with this local philanthropy initiative.

James Campo, certified financial planner and Leave A Legacy committee member, will be the featured speaker at the February AFP luncheon, presenting the Public Awareness Campaign of Leave A Legacy, as well as the advantages this partnership brings to their AFP member organizations.

The luncheon meeting will be held at the Twisted Grill Restaurant in Smithfield Plaza on East Ocean Boulevard in Stuart on Friday, Feb. 28 beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Anyone interested in hearing more about the local Leave A Legacy program is invited to attend. Cost is $15 for AFP members and $20 for non-members. Please R.S.V.P. to Suzanne Ross at (772) 221-7178 or by e-mail at treasurecoast-fl@ccf.org. The general public is welcome.

Leave a Legacy is a national grassroots imitative of charitable organizations, professional advisors and financial institutions with over 130 programs throughout the U.S. and Canada and locally sponsored by the Treasure Coast Planned Giving Council. The focus is to educate the public with a simple message: By including a charitable gift in your estate plan or will for the organizations you support — whether $100 or $1 million — the impact of your life can be felt and remembered for generations.

The Martin County Community Foundation, as founding partner, provided funds to begin the Leave A Legacy public awareness phase. A Speakers Bureau of professional advisors is available to provide presentations to partner non-profit boards and donors on the convenience and benefits of including a bequest to the charity of their choice in their will or estate plan.

For information on Leave A Legacy, please call Suzanne Horstman at (772) 221-1409 or James Campo at 286-0330, or visit the Web site at www.leavealegacy.org